bd

The Stedelijk Chair is the first chair by Dutch designer Sabine Marcelis. Commissioned by the Stedelijk Museum Amsterdam, renowned for its design collection, the Stedelijk Chair has a strong character that exemplifies Sabine Marcelis' design style.

Brimming with visual appetite, aluminium flows from legs to backrest with a smooth cohesion that accentuates its materiality. Its flowing silhouette compliments the smooth white form of the Stedelijk Museums exterior and the museum's fresh new spaces. This visual presence is aided by a versatile and stackable structure fit for residential or public environments. Marcelis merges timeless design and sculpture in a chair that is lightweight and made of a 100% aluminium body.

The Stedelijk showcases Marcelis' design prowess with an uninterrupted line of aluminium and stripped-back design.
